

Intercultural Training for Doctoral Students

GUSI Network · January–March 2026

1. Introduction

The Global Universities for Societal Impact (GUSI) network, which comprises Emory University, Hebrew University of Jerusalem (HUJI), University of Bonn, University of St Andrews, and Waseda University, will offer a five-session, online intercultural training for doctoral students from any discipline, open to all five universities in the network. This initiative aims to strengthen intercultural communication, deepen cultural awareness, and foster international research networks. It provides doctoral students with a unique opportunity to connect with peers across global institutions, exchange perspectives, and develop competencies essential for thriving in diverse academic environments.

2. Program Overview

- Format: 5 interactive online sessions (60–120 minutes each)
- Timeline: Tuesdays at 9 or 10 AM, January – March 2026
- Topics: Cultural self-awareness; Understanding others' values; Intercultural competencies
- Facilitators: Intercultural Training Experts from Emory University and the University of Bonn

3. Session Plan & Provisional Dates

| Session | Date | Duration | Topic |
|---------|--------|--------------|--|
| 1 | Jan 27 | 60 min | Opening session; introductions & program preview |
| 2 | Feb 10 | 90 - 120 min | Cultural Self-Awareness |
| 3 | Feb 24 | 90 - 120 min | Understanding others & cultural values |
| 4 | Mar 17 | 90 - 120 min | Intercultural awareness / suspending judgement (competency building) |
| 5 | Mar 24 | 90 min | Wrap-up & reflection |

4. Learning Outcomes

- Understand what defines culture, intercultural communication, and competence
- Reflect on personal cultural values and communication styles
- Recognize how intersectionality and cultural lenses shape perceptions
- Distinguish between cultural stereotypes and generalizations
- Identify sources of intercultural misunderstanding
- Practice empathy, flexibility, and open-mindedness in cross-cultural settings

5. Eligibility & Cohort

- Doctoral students from all subject areas (preferably 2nd–3rd year, but open to others)
- A small group of students from each institution, selected by each university.

6. Application Details

Applications will close on November 28, 2025. Applicants will be notified by mid-December. If applications exceed capacity, we will prioritize representation across the five universities and disciplines. Apply here!

7. Contact Information and More Information

For more details, please contact Natalie Cruz at Natalie.cruz@emory.edu. Visit our website to view more details about the GUSI Network.